Family act, a Hand to Hold Care

NRRP's policies for family welfare belong to the Family law act's attachments, currently under approval, which include policies such as: children benefits, employment incentives for women, working mothers and young adults, etc.

Reinforcement of the Welfare system

The Family act is a comprehensive policy spanning from:

- the new universal child allowance
- the reinforcement of the Welfare system
- new family leave policies
- to training incentives
- workplace safety
- support to women entrepreneurship

Policies enlisted in the bill aim at improving balanced parenting and reconciliation of work and family life, also tackling the issue of education and promotion of employment for young workers.

Universal child allowance

The family act includes firstly and foremostly the new Universal child allowance, a new single allowance replacing a raft of other so-called 'baby bonuses', unifying a series of measures to support families. The new allowance is a monthly means-tested benefit for those who have children, or are about to have a child.

This policy favours rationalization and progressivity of the tax system, as well as promoting gender equality and youngsters work employment. The Parliament briefly has to pass new bills, following Law 1 April 2021, n. 46.

Universal child allowance: the eligibility criteria - 1

The Universal child allowance is aimed at sustaining parenthood and increasing birth rates.

The Italian government has therefore unified and increased different “baby bonuses” (Child benefits), as the European Commission has previously requested in its “Country specific recommendations”, with the objective of reshaping a fairer tax system and enabling social inclusion.

Universal child allowance: the eligibility criteria - 2

The allowance is granted to families with dependent children, with the objective of supporting households' needs, especially for those who are underprivileged. The allowance is paid according to families' "ISEE", an index associated with the economic condition of the requesters.

Universal child allowance : available resources

- ☐ The Government has planned to invest yearly between 5 and 6 billion in 2022, depending on requests, under the 2021 Budget Law (article 1, paragraphs 2 to 7, Law no. 178 of 2020).
- ☐ The Universal Family Allowance, previously funded with € 1,044 million for 2021 (Article 1, paragraph 339, of Law no. 160 of 2020), has been increased.
- ☐ These resources are summed to other different funds associated with family care, that are now unified under the Universal Family Allowance.

Preschool, nursery school

The Family Act unifies already existing measures destined to dependent children and add new benefits, including tuition fees: partial or total allowances for kindergartens, infancy school and homeschooling, for children under 6 yrs.

Further measures are provided for children with disabilities

Other student benefits include:

- ☐ Bookstore Vouchers in primary and secondary schools
- ☐ allowances paid to cultural travel costs
- ☐ special classes attending (art, music, foreign languages, sport)

Parenting and family leave

New policies concerning reconciliation of work and family life, balanced parenting and family leave, entitling fathers to further quotas, are introduced, according to European Parliament and Council directive 2019/1158EC.

Women work

The Family Act aims at strengthening female work, also through tax credit granted to help families balance and outsource workload at home. Initiatives include home care.

A share of the SME's Guarantee Fund, as established in Article 2, paragraph 100, letter a), Law 23 December 1996, n. 662, will finance women entrepreneurship projects, for a 2 years period. Special provisions are destined to women entrepreneurship in Southern Italy.

Remote working

Family leave to assist children can be further prolonged but at salaries expenses.

Fiscal credits are granted to employers who facilitate family balancing, by introducing remote working

Other fiscal benefits

The Family act also provides:

- ☐ Fiscal benefits for young couples under 35 yrs to pay house rents
- ☐ Book allowance in Universities, in the terms of tax credit
- ☐ Housing allowances for University Students

Self-organising energy communities in small Municipalities - 2

This action supports energy communities and users who use self-produced renewable energy, generated by installations of home grid networks, such as photovoltaic panels or mini wind generators. This trend is still developing and spurs from the UE Directive RED II, which favours these habits, specifically in some areas where the benefits can be higher.

The initiative targets small communities, public offices, households and businesses located in Municipalities with less than 5000 inhabitants, with the objective of halting depopulation and favouring social inclusion.

Self-organising energy communities in small Municipalities: goals

The investment aims to install approximately 2,000 MW of new power generation capacity by linking together Renewable energy communities and users.

The forecasts assume a potential self production of about 2,500 GWh per year, based on the generation of 1,250 kWh from home photovoltaic paneling. These actions would cut 1.5 million tons of CO₂ per year. Energy communities must rely also on the installation of home power storage systems.
